Taking Charge of Your Professional Destiny

Tonya Mathis-Hondlik
President and CEO
Pros Communications

Tonya Mathis-Hondlik, President and CEO of Pros Communications, a monthly business magazine for entrepreneurs and small business owners, speaks about taking charge of your professional destiny.

Hear how Tonya Mathis-Hondlik's mantra -- some people believe in success while others wake up and work hard at it -- prompted her to launch Pros Communications and bring the success stories and best practices of high profile national executives to Charlotte. In addition, get some behind the scenes, unpublished knowledge on:

- just how human these executives are
- what their everyday lives are really like
- how they balance it all

Tonya Mathis-Hondlik is the President and CEO of Pros Communications, LLC. Founded in 2005, Pros Communications is a monthly business magazine of best practices for small business owners, entrepreneurs and professionals. After 10 years in magazine and newspaper publishing, working for American City Business Journals (ACBJ) and Branch-Smith Publishing, Tonya decided to develop a product that would focus on small business and entrepreneurial growth.

A native of New York, Tonya called Dallas/Fort Worth home after studying Mass Communications and Political Science at Texas Wesleyan University and working in the area for the next several years. She then worked for ACBJ in their Sacramento and Charlotte offices and since 2002, she and her husband Dan Hondlik have called Charlotte home.

An active member of the Charlotte community, Tonya sits on the Board of the March of Dimes and the Charlotte Sting Community Advisory Board. She also supports the United Way's Women's Leadership Initiative, Youth Homes Inc. and the Alexander Youth Network
